AXXIst CONGRESS .... First Session. SENATE ... Wesnixurus, Wednesday, April 24. The Senate took up Mr. WESSTER's resolution in relation to the propriety of taking home measures to facilitate the coinage of the United States. Mr. WEBSTER supported the resolution by the existing law; a million of coin was allowed to be placed in the Mint to be exchanged for bullion; taxes, much inconvenience had been experienced of late in consequence of the insufficiency of this sum to meet the requirement of the business in the Mint.

A bill had been proposed in the other House augmenting this sum to two millions, but no extinn bad been had upon it. In consequence of the time consumed here before bulken from California left at the Mint can be transferred to coin, much of it was likely. was likely to go to England for coinage when large mounts of coin could be procured from the Bank of England within twenty four bours of the deposit of England within twenty four hours of the deposit of the billion. Many orders sending to England for coinage had already been made—the expense of sending to England for coinage was only about one per cent, which was readily balanced by the interest apon the value of the bullion during the time which it was to await coinage in our Mint.—There was said to be now in the Mint about eight millions of bullion awaiting edinage, there was in the Treasury of the United States about nine milthe Treasury of the United States about nine mi
